Teacher and Librarian Read-Aloud Guide

Best for: Ages 3–6, preschool to early primary.

Read-aloud time: 5–8 minutes.

Themes: patience, waiting, turn-taking, body feelings, self-control, cheering others.

Materials: the book, a soft toy, a red ball, Waiting Tools cards, certificate, coloring page.

Before reading

Ask one gentle question. Children may answer aloud, point, or simply think.

- What does your body do when waiting feels hard?
- Why do we take turns in a line or a game?
- What can your hands, eyes, or heart do while you wait?

During reading

Pause at these story moments.

- When Yok sees the long slide line: What is Yok's body doing?
- When the line barely moves: Why does waiting feel so hard?
- When the face-painter gives Yok a waiting job: How does Rabbit help?
- When Yok almost bumps the smaller child: What did Yok notice in time?
- When Yok cheers for another turn: How can cheering make waiting easier?

After reading

Choose one quick follow-up.

1. Breathe: Take one slow dinosaur breath together.
2. Count: Find three things in the room while waiting.
3. Squeeze: Give hands a gentle job with Rabbit, a soft toy, or hands together.
4. Cheer: Practice saying, "Good turn!" or "Your turn is coming."

Parent Conversation Card

After the Story: Talk About Waiting Tools

Ask gently

1. What did Yok want to do right away?
2. What did Yok's tail, toes, and claws do while she waited?
3. Why does a line help everyone know who comes next?
4. Which waiting tool helped Yok: breathing, counting, squeezing, or cheering?
5. Where could you use a waiting tool this week?

Practice together

Take turns saying one waiting sentence. Keep it short and concrete.

- My turn is coming.
- I can take one slow breath.
- My hands can squeeze gently.
- I can count three things.
- I can cheer for a friend.
- Waiting tools help my body.

Home activity: Make a tiny waiting kit: one soft toy or fidget, one picture card for breathing, and one "cheer for someone" card. Try it before a real wait: a line, a meal, a turn, or bedtime.

Waiting Tools Practice Cards

Cut out the cards. Practice one waiting tool at a time.

Children can point to a tool card before, during, or after a wait.

My turn is coming.

Take a slow dinosaur breath.

Give hands a gentle job.

Count three things.

Cheer for a friend.

Wait for the next turn.

Stand safely in line.

My body can slow down.

Use a waiting job.

Adult tip: Waiting is easier with a concrete job. Name the body feeling, show one tool, and praise the child for using the tool rather than for being perfectly still.

Patient Waiting Certificate

This certificate is awarded to for using a waiting tool today.

Waiting tools I tried:

- ☐ I took a slow breath. ☐ I counted three things.
- ☐ I squeezed gently. ☐ I cheered for a friend.
- ☐ I waited for my turn. ☐ I stood safely in line.
