Teacher and Librarian Read-Aloud Guide

Best for: Ages 3–6, preschool to early primary.

Read-aloud time: 5–8 minutes.

Themes: kindness, empathy, inclusion, noticing needs, small helpful actions.

Materials: the book, paper hearts or stickers, Kindness Steps cards, certificate, coloring page.

Before reading

Ask one gentle question. Children may answer aloud, point, or simply think.

- What is one small kind thing someone has done for you?
- Does kindness have to be big to count?
- What can you notice when someone might need care?

During reading

Pause at these story moments.

- When Abby opens the tin of hearts: What do the hearts help the children remember?
- When Yok thinks kindness has to be huge: Why might Yok feel unsure?
- When Yok makes room in the shade: Why is sharing space kind?
- When the scarf slips from the bench: What does Yok notice, and how does she help?
- When Yok's badge fills with hearts: What small kindnesses mattered?

After reading

Choose one quick follow-up.

1. Notice it: Look around and name one small way to help.
2. Show it: Act out sharing space, returning something, or sitting beside someone.
3. Say it: Practice: "There's room here."
4. Remember it: Give a paper heart for one small kindness.

Parent Conversation Card

After the Story: Talk About Small Kindness

Ask gently

1. Why did Yok think her badge should stay blank?
2. What small kind things did Yok do?
3. How did sharing shade help another child?
4. Why did returning the scarf matter?
5. What kind step could you try today?

Practice together

Take turns saying one small kindness sentence. A quiet voice still counts.

- | | |
|----------------------|----------------------------------|
| ▪ There's room here. | ▪ Would you like to sit with me? |
| ▪ I can help. | ▪ I noticed you needed care. |
| ▪ Is this yours? | ▪ Small kindness matters. |

Home activity: Cut out a few paper hearts. Each time someone notices a small kindness, place a heart in a bowl or on the fridge. At the end of the day, remember the little things that helped.
