Teacher and Librarian Read-Aloud Guide

Best for: Ages 3–6, preschool to early primary.

Read-aloud time: 5–8 minutes.

Themes: honesty, telling the truth, worry, repair, responsibility, gentle accountability.

Materials: the book, a soft toy, Truth Steps cards, certificate, coloring page.

Before reading

Ask one gentle question. Children may answer aloud, point, or simply think.

- Why can it feel hard to tell what really happened?
- What helps you tell the truth when you feel worried?
- What can we do after something gets hurt or broken?

During reading

Pause at these story moments.

- When the ball bounces into the flowers: What might Yok feel in her body?
- When Yok says, “I don’t know”: Why do the true words feel too big?
- When the little gray cloud follows Yok: What might the cloud stand for?
- When Tom says Yok looks like she is carrying something: How does Tom help gently?
- When Yok tells the truth: What can everyone do now that they know what happened?

After reading

Choose one quick follow-up.

1. Stop: Put one hand on your tummy and notice a heavy feeling.
2. Tell: Practice: “Here is what happened.”
3. Help: Name one way to repair, clean, or make things better.
4. Celebrate: Give a Truth and Repair certificate for brave truth-telling.

Parent Conversation Card

After the Story: Talk About True Words

Ask gently

1. Why did Yok say, "I don't know"?
2. What happened to the little gray cloud?
3. How did telling the truth help Yok repair the flowers?
4. What did Tom do that made it easier for Yok to tell?
5. What is one true thing you could say when something goes wrong?

Practice together

Take turns saying one calm truth sentence. A whisper still counts.

- | | |
|---------------------------------|-------------------------|
| ▪ I need to tell you something. | ▪ I am sorry. |
| ▪ Here is what happened. | ▪ I can help repair it. |
| ▪ I felt worried. | ▪ True words can help. |

Home activity: Draw a small gray cloud on scrap paper. Name one worry that can feel heavy. Then draw a watering can, flower, or helping hand to show how telling the truth can open the way to repair.

Truth Steps Practice Cards

Cut out the cards. Use them to practice telling the truth and helping repair.

Children may point to a card instead of speaking. That still counts as a brave step.

Stop

Notice the heavy feeling.

Tell

Say what really happened.

Help

Repair what you can.

Hold steady

Take one slow breath.

Name it

"The ball hit the flowers."

Make a plan

Clean, fix, or make a sign.

Thank truth

"Thank you for telling."

Try again

Play gently next time.

Feel lighter

True words can help.

Adult tip: Calm truth-telling works best when repair is possible. Thank the child for telling, name what happened, and help them repair what can be repaired.
