Read-Aloud Guide

Best for: Ages 3–6

Read-aloud: 5–8 min.

Theme: nightmares, reconnecting with the present, naming real things, retelling a scary dream, and changing the ending.

Approach: Let the story lead. Pause for body clues, choices, and small moments of agency rather than turning the reading into a lesson.

Before reading

- Can a dream feel real while we are dreaming?
- What real things can help us remember where we are after a bad dream?
- How could we give a scary dream a silly new ending?

During reading

- When Yok wakes with a gasp: Why might the dream still feel real for a moment?
- When Yok touches the blanket, pillow, and bed rail: How do real things help her reconnect with the room?
- When Yok tells the dream from beginning to end: Why might telling the whole story make it feel more finished?
- When they change the ending: How does the funny new version change the picture in Yok's mind?

After reading

1. Name three things you can see.
2. Touch two real things nearby.
3. Name one safe person you can call.
4. Invent one funny change to a scary dream.

Parent Conversation Card

Ask gently

1. Why did the dream still feel real right after Yok woke?
2. Which real things helped Yok reconnect with her room?
3. Why did telling the dream help?
4. How did changing the ending reduce the dream's power?

Grown-up note: After a nightmare, help the child reconnect with the present before pushing sleep. Naming real things, telling the dream, and changing the ending can make the remembered story feel less powerful.

Tiny everyday habit: Choose one phrase or strategy from the story and practice it once during a calm moment this week. It is easier to use a skill under stress after it has been rehearsed when things are going well.

Practice Cards

Cut out the cards. Children may say, point, act, or match the phrase.

I HAD A BAD DREAM

Name what happened.

I'M HERE NOW

Return to the present.

THREE REAL THINGS

Look around the room.

TOUCH SOMETHING REAL

Use the senses.

CALL A GROWN-UP

Ask for comfort.

TELL THE DREAM

Make it a finished story.

CHANGE THE ENDING

Imagine a safer or sillier version.

SLOW BREATH

Help the body settle.

MORNING WILL COME

Remember the night will pass.

Adult tip: After a nightmare, help the child reconnect with the present before pushing sleep. Naming real things, telling the dream, and changing the ending can make the remembered story feel less powerful.

Brave Dream Explorer Certificate
